

30-Day Action Planner

Turn your assessment result into a month of concrete actions. Three priorities, nothing more.

Start here

My readiness score and stage

From the Inspireall business assessment

The one thing that would change the most if I fixed it

My three priorities this month

Priority one

What done looks like, and the date

Priority two

What done looks like, and the date

Priority three

What done looks like, and the date

Week one

Smallest first step for each priority. Something you can finish this week.

End of month review

- What did I finish, and what did it change?
- What did I not finish, and what actually got in the way?
- What is the single priority for next month?

Rules that make this work

- Three priorities, not ten. A long list is a way of choosing nothing.
- Write the date beside every action or it will not happen.

- Review on the same day each week, even when the week went badly.
- Structure beats motivation. Do the boring thing on the boring day.
